Dear Mr. Epp,

My constituent,
spoke to me recently about her concerns related to environmentally sensitive related health problems.

Her son, who is 28 years of age, suffers from "cerebral allergies" as a result of environmental sensitivities.

She tells me that the best treatment centre for his health problem is a clinic located in England.

I have advised her to pursue treatment through the administrators of the Ontario health care program, but I share her view that there is a need for increased research into this serious situation in Canada.

I would appreciate it if you would write directly to outlining our government's approach to environmentally sensitive illnesses with a copy to me.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. All best wishes.

Sincerely,

Pauline Browes
